

Let Audi get you back on the road.

Original Equipment Manufacturers Associations agree that following OEM repair guidelines is the preferred way to help ensure your vehicle is repaired according to factory specifications. Should your Audi vehicle be damaged in a collision, we want to help ensure that you have access to a repair facility that not only meets our high standards for workmanship and integrity, but yours as well.

Ask for Audi Authorized Collision Repair.

If you have collision insurance, here are some tips to keep in mind:

- > The insurance company must provide you a copy of your policy.
- > You may not need to wait until your policy is up for renewal before canceling or changing your insurance.<sup>4</sup>
- > You can request that your insurer and repair facility use Audi Genuine Parts and Audi-approved repair procedures.<sup>5</sup>

Don't lose the Audi spark.

Trust the technicians who know your vehicle inside and out.

- 1 Audi Roadside Assistance provided by a third party. Your vehicle will be taken to the nearest Audi Authorized Collision Repair Facility in the U.S.
- 2 12 months or 12,000 miles, whichever occurs first. In the event that a replacement part fails within the warranty period, labor costs to replace that part will be covered. See dealer for details.
- 3 See your authorized Audi dealer for details.
- 4 Contact your insurance professional and review your policy for more information.
- 5 Please refer to your local/state laws and review your policy for more information. Use of Audi Genuine Parts may incur additional costs.
